Leaderboard

Alternating "default" profile colors provide distinction and visual interest when no profile images are present
